HONOLULU, H. I., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1902—SEMI-WEEKLY.

WHOLE N. 2425.

LIEUT. GEN. NELSON A. MILES IS NOW HERE ON TOUR OF INSPECTION OF ALL POSTS OF THE U. S. ARMY

COL. MARION P. MAUS, A. D. C. TO GEN. MILES.

LISTS SHOW A MATERIAL GAIN OF VOTING STRENGTH

Both Districts Increase the Voting Population, the Fifth Adding Greatest Number.

Great gains shown in the registration, due to the hard work of the committees of both districts, have brought hopes to the hearts of Republicans and furnish incentive to work all the more. The gains have been fairly distributed and the outlook is for a vote which will come close to the names on the lists.

The increased vote in the Fourth district is $58, even when taking in consideration that there are several hundreds of native residents in the Fifth district who removed last year to Kaimuki and that there have been several hundred white mechanics who have left for the Coast. On the other hand the gains in the Fifth district have been 427, which means that there is a greater interest in this election than in the former one, on the part of Hawaiians, for there cannot be such an addition to the foreign vote, without the increase having made an impression on the business community.

In the Fourth district there are two precincts which show a decrease in the total of the vote cast, one case being that of Waimanalo, where the loss is a clear one, and the other the fifth precinct, where the voters went over to the Fifth district in great part, though there was a fair slice taken off to add to the new eighth precinct. The eighth is made up of pieces from the second and the fifth, and the registration in the three precincts is 11 more than in the two, two years ago. In the Fifth district there are two precincts which show a falling off, the second, Kahuku, and the sixth, Pearl City, and the total decrease there is nine, while the gains are material in every other precinct, the seventh, in which is the Detention camp, showing 221 votes over the former registration.

The registration in the various precincts as compared with that of two years ago is as follows:

Fourth District.	1902.	1900.
First precinct	543	453
Second precinct	346	314
Third precinct	408	335
Fourth precinct	713	657
Fifth precinct	377	534
Sixth precinct	237	197
Seventh precinct	27	39
Eighth precinct	736	—
Totals	3387	3129
Fifth District.	1902.	1900.
First precinct	172	146
Second precinct	208	212
Third precinct	193	176
Fourth precinct	115	100
Fifth precinct	81	61
Sixth precinct	272	277
Seventh precinct	799	578
Eighth precinct	461	417
Ninth precinct	437	392
Tenth precinct	258	210
Totals	2996	2569

There are 160 numbers which are representing names held up or blanks which have been filled improperly and thus destroyed. Many of these will be added to the registration lists as soon as the Board can settle the questions.

Camp McKinley First Point Visited.

Pearl Harbor Will Be Looked Into Today.

FLYING the blue square flag with three white stars, at the fore peak, the transport Thomas, bearing the Lieutenant General commanding the United States Army and his staff, arrived yesterday afternoon. The booming of guns when the salutes from the naval station and the German cruiser were answered, drew added crowds to the dock, and the welcome accorded the visitors was hearty.

Gen. Miles in white flannel stood upon the bridge as the ship was docked and waved his greetings to Maj. Davis, formerly on his staff, and Capt. Williamson, who was on hand to render any service possible. As soon as the gang plank was up those officers and Capt. Whiting and Capt. White of the naval station went aboard and paid their respects to the general commanding. Apartments had been secured at the Hawaiian Hotel and the party was driven there at once. With the General are Mrs. Miles, Col. Marion P. Maus, aide, and Mrs. Maus, Charles Sherman Hoyt, a nephew, Henry C. Rouse and F. B. Wiborg, old friends, Col. J. L. Chamberlain, inspector general, and Mrs. Chamberlain, Lt. Col. B. C. Lockwood and Lt. Col. H. W. Sproul, and Mrs. Hooker, were in the party which is domiciled at the hotel, as the immediate party of the chief visitor.

As soon as the visitors had repaired to their rooms and freshened up after the trip, Gen. Miles with his aide and Maj. Davis, post commandant, Col. Chamberlain and others went to Camp McKinley and made an inspection of the post there. This occupied their time until dinner and all spent the evening there receiving the many callers who paid their respects.

Gen. Miles is in excellent health and looks better than he has for some years, so well in fact that it hardly seems possible that his retirement will take place next year. He said that he had enjoyed the trip exceedingly, as there was not an hour of bad weather during the run from San Francisco. Asked as to his plans he said: "I am making a general tour of inspection of the army. We shall stay here until noon Saturday, and then will sail for Guam and the Philippines."

"While here I expect to make a thorough inspection. Tomorrow I shall look at the sites for fortifications at Pearl Harbor, where the naval station will be placed, and as well will go to the site proposed for the permanent barracks if possible. Every minute of my time will be given to looking over the ground while here, and I consider that I shall have my hands full."

"From appearances this is a most beautiful part of the United States."

The general impression I have had of the Islands is one of their great beauty and I am looking forward to further enjoyment in going about through the plantations and seeing the character of the country."

Col. Marion P. Maus, who has been on the staff of Gen. Miles for many years, knows Honolulu right well, as he has made one trip here as inspector and is conversant with all army property and with the needs of the post.

LIEUT. GEN. NELSON A. MILES, U. S. A.

WRIGHT PROBABLY WENT ON OCEANIC STEAMER ALAMEDA

The Name of William Harrison Added to the Passenger List on the Way to San Francisco.

William H. Wright, Territorial Treasurer, was in all probability a first class passenger on the Alameda for San Francisco and was booked as "W. Harrison."

Wright's middle initial stands for "Harrison" and it is not unlikely that in the hurry of the moment when asked to sign for his ticket he did so as "W. Harrison." The first cabin passenger list of the "Alameda" as published in the San Francisco papers of October 1st contains the name of "W. Harrison," in addition to the passengers listed at Irwin & Co. for the Alameda upon her departure from Honolulu on September 24th. The supposition is natural therefore that the absconding treasurer was in reality a passenger on the Oceanic boat and enjoyed all the privileges of a first class ticket. No information to this effect was received in the city by the "Thomas" yesterday as far as could be learned from people who would have heard from Wright. This can hardly be called surprising however in considering that Wright is seeking to escape arrest, and he would not be very likely to give the police here such a clue to work upon from the San Francisco end.

Not all of the mail received by Irwin & Co. had been opened last evening and it is barely possible that some news may have been sent by the ship's officers concerning Wright's departure upon the boat.

If Wright was a passenger on the Alameda he very probably remained in his cabin during the entire trip in order to escape detection for there were people on the steamer who would have easily recognized the treasurer if he had appeared on deck. Assistant United States Attorney Dunne was a passenger and Mrs. Dunne received two letters from him by yesterday's mail. In neither did he mention a word concerning Wright, which might indicate either that he did not see the treasurer or if he did, he was in possession of no information regarding the defalcation. As a matter of fact it is extremely doubtful if anyone aboard the steamer was informed of the search for Wright. While it was evident to all that the police were looking for some one on the day the steamer left, no intimation was given as to the cause of the search, as the police at that time were not positive of Wright's crime.

There had been a simple notification that he should not be allowed to leave the Territory and if perhaps some of the ship's officers were aware of the nature of the man-hunt, it was only for the purpose of obtaining assistance in the search. High Sheriff Brown said last evening that he had not informed anyone on the steamer to look out for Wright, because at the time the Alameda sailed he was not certain that the treasurer had boarded her, and the information of his being seen on the wharf was not received until several hours after the departure of the vessel. The High Sheriff received no news by the Thomas in regard to the missing official but he was also of the opinion that the "W. Harrison" who arrived in San Francisco was the Wm. Harrison Wright who left Honolulu on the Alameda.

The arrival of the Alameda today will set at rest all speculations as to the means of departure of the Territorial Treasurer. The name on the passenger list indicates that however great the precautions taken by Wright in leaving Honolulu, he afterwards gave his name to the purser as "W. Harrison." This would be borne out by the theory
